

Ardyth & Jennifer

BAND STORY

"For over a decade Ardyth Robinson and Jennifer Wyatt have been entertaining audiences with their unique sound and original songwriting. Packing two large Celtic harps, a bag of flutes, penny whistles and percussion instruments along with their sound system into a deisel Golf, they have learned the back roads of the Maritimes like the back of their hand. In the fall of 2007, with their new CD, "Learn To Fly" in hand, they decided to hit the road to Ontario for the first time. Playing a few select gigs in Ottawa, Toronto, and a couple of smaller cities along the way, they received critical acclaim for their songwriting, unique arrangements and engaging stage presence. This has begun to pave the way for more touring in Ontario. With a standing invitation to play again in the newly developed St. Brigid's Centre for the Arts and Humanities in Ottawa, a warm welcome offered back to Tecumseh, and many new found friends willing to help organize concerts in other venues throughout Ontario and in Quebec, they are working on another mini tour in October of 2008. This is a duo that truly must be seen to be appreciated. With a lively, comfortable way of relating to their audiences they sing songs that sparkle with humour, and tell stories of the people and land they find around them. Inspired by strong Maritime roots, they draw on the heart of jazz rhythms, and stand humbly on the backs of the many great songwriters they admire like Joni Mitchell, Paul Simon, Stan Rogers and of course all their songwriting buddies who are out on the road passing each other like ships in a storm. Some of Ardyth & Jennifer's career highlights include playing at the Boston Irish Festival, Cape Breton's famous Celtic Colours Festival, the Stan Rogers Folk Festival, along with many other of the Maritime's premier Folk festivals and soft seater venues. They are currently self managed, self promoted and self propelled, but they are very lucky to have six time "Nova Scotia's Booking Agent of the Year" award winner, Marcel Cloutier of TalentSource Entertainment working with them keeping their schedule up to date and answering the phone when they're out on the road.
