BAND STORY

"Simon Feret... what can be said? Pop superstar? Eccentric rocker? Honky tonk man? As diverse as that sounds, when Simon Feret sings, you know it's Simon Feret, and everybody loves it. Teenage girls who listen to mainstream pop, non-conformist outcasts who detest mainstream pop, conservative old ladies and the workingman all love him. Why? He encompasses the spirit of them all. Vocals like Marc Bolan, Mick Jagger and Hank Williams, song structure like Avril Lavigne, wrapped up with a Dean Martin sense of humour and charisma. Simon Feret is mainstream and counterculture. He appeals to everyone. The release of his debut album "Pick Me Up" marks the start of his formal career. Informally and passionately, music began for him long ago. Classically trained in violin from the age of three, Simon has a wealth of knowledge and expertise in the world of music, which has resulted in the forming of an exceptional songwriter with a voice, both vocal and spiritual, which can only be described as vivid. Simon was born on June 13, 1984 to Francisca and Joseph Feret. He was raised in Schomberg, a small country town in Southern Ontario. Simon now lives on the island of Cape Breton. He has so far written, recorded and produced his first album there and has released it under his own independent label "Feret Hole Records". He has studied Cape Breton fiddle style with The Barra MacNeils' Kyle MacNeil and has worked with James Dean Hicks and Ralph Murphy, some of America's most prolific songwriters."
